Iowa Senator Declares Republican Party Has Strayed From Ideals of Founders—Criticism Is Severe But Says He Has Not Abandoned the Party.

(By The Associated Press)
EMMETTSBURG, Iowa, Oct. 3.—Senator Smith W. Brookhart storm senator in Iowa politics since his election two years ago and who early this week denounced Charles G. Dawes, republican vice-presidential candidate, formally opened his campaign for reelection here today with a address in which he attacked President Coolidge and "machine party leaders".

Replying to reports that he would support the presidential candidacy of Robert M. La Follette, he said he never had a thought of leaving the republican party. Senator Brookhart charged that the "machine organization" has refused to recognize the will of the people. Referring particularly to his own differences with leaders of his party, Senator Brookhart said that although he had been nominated "by 200,000 republicans, without a machine and without money, and was 'opposed by Wall Street's money and by the presidents power,' his nomination had never been recognized by President Coolidge as the voice of republicanism in Iowa.

Senator Brookhart declares republican leaders refused him favor because he had differed on so many occasions from the national administration, naming a dozen issues. "I belong to the farm bloc," he declared in designating President Coolidge as "the machine candidate." "I have never had a thought of leaving the republican party," the senator said. "My whole soul is wrapped up in the principles of Lincoln, Roosevelt and Kenyon. I will fight any leaders who seek to divert the party from these great purposes."

"Issue have now arisen in Iowa as to whether the principles of the republican party shall be determined by the voters themselves or by a small group of crooked and irresponsible dictators set up by the non-partisan league of Wall Street. This group of dictators, with renewed and vitriolic venom and I, therefore, wish to restate my position and to perform the lines for a final fight to oust this gang from the control of the republican party."

Senator Brookhart said Lincoln assailed "the autocratic powers of the supreme court" in the case of the Dred Scott decision, that Roosevelt assailed the "machine" of great wealth and that Kenyon organized the farm bloc for economic freedom and equality of the farmers and common people.

"These ideas," he said, "have brought me in sharp disagreement with many different elements which style themselves republican and by their financial power control the policies of the national administration."

"I have said that I would do for me and the voters are entitled to know what we have done for each other and also to each other. I shall give you facts from the inside and shall rest content with your judgment."

Reviewing his nomination the senator said his principal supporters were farmers and laboring people, "denounced as radicals by the president and his supporters."

"The Republican State Convention, summoned an dissatisfied me," he continued. "The Coolidge newspapers over the State, with festive to de have booted me and continue to de (Continued on Page Sixteen.)"

SETTLEMENT IS MADE TO BANK BY C. M. TRINKLE
Former Head of Institution Meets Obligations; Resources Unimpaired Now
(By The Associated Press)
WYTHEVILLE, Va., Oct. 3.—Clarence M. Trinkle, brother of Governor E. Lee Trinkle, and formerly president of the Farmers and Bank of Southwest Virginia, has made full settlement of all his obligations to the Farmers bank of Southwest Virginia, it was announced at the bank this morning, and the resources of the bank are said to be unimpaired. The statement issued by President R. L. Pierce of the bank, follows: Full settlement has today been rendered of all obligations and liabilities of C. M. Trinkle, former president of the bank, to the Farmers bank of Southwest Virginia and the bank of Southwest Virginia are unimpaired. A certified statement of the condition of the bank will be published as soon as the accountants have made a report of their audit. This will be at an early date."

GASOLINE IS TO TAKE ANOTHER CUT TOMORROW

Discrepancy in Prices in Danville and North Carolina Causes Comment

Danville motorists will again benefit by the price war which is raging between the large oil companies. Another drop of one cent bringing the retail price of gasoline here, plus the state tax down to 21 cents a gallon will be effective tomorrow. The wholesale cut was effective today but owing to some confusion it was said that the retail price would not be reduced until tomorrow.

The discrepancy in gasoline prices between Danville and North Carolina is beginning to affect the local filling stations and there is already a big loss reported in business here. The Danville car owner has only to drive five miles south of this city and he can buy gasoline at sixteen cents per gallon. Tourists coming South apparently know this and instead of filling up here secure only enough gas to carry them to the zone where the lower rates prevail. Virtually all of the North Carolina farmers bringing tobacco to Danville on their cars are filling up in North Carolina before they get into Virginia and one local gasoline station manager reported that for two days a sharp falling off has been observed.

It is understood that two oil companies with plants here and which serve some of the North Carolina filling stations at wholesale are selling gasoline in Danville at 17 1/2 cents a gallon while the same gasoline from the same tanks if it is in North Carolina, sells for 15 cents. A shortage in ethyl which during the past month has become tremendously popular with Danville motorists because of the added smoothness and quicker pick-up it gives to motor cars is also being felt here and tourists passing through Danville are already showing a disposition not to buy gasoline here when they find that the new fluid cannot be obtained. The reason for this shortage has caused general shortage, however, not only in Virginia but North Carolina. Danville dealers reported they are "out" of the volatile fluid this morning though a new shipment is expected here daily.

Reasons for the curtailment of gasoline prices are said to be the decrease of motor traffic which reaches its height in August and September. In order to rectify the gasoline condition in Danville which is being complained of by many car owners, W. C. Hilderman, this morning telegraphed to the headquarters office of the Standard Oil Company, urging that prices be equalized and that the company authorize a lower rate. E. E. Bannan also wired to the Gulf Refining Company's headquarters and called attention to the local situation. The secretary of the Chamber of Commerce also took a hand in the proceeding this morning and was trying to bring about a more equitable rate in Danville.

EPIDEMIC OF THEFTS STAGED IN PETERSBURG

Series of Robberies and One Drugging Puzzle Police

(By The Associated Press)
PETERSBURG, Va., Oct. 3.—Entering three homes in widely separated sections of the city and drugging Dan S. Hollenga, business manager of the chamber of commerce, burglars last night staged an epidemic of robberies, getting over $700 in money and valuables. Today police are puzzled by the robberies, clues being left in only one of them. After a sensational chase, the robbers of one of the houses escaped in an automobile after throwing away their loot. As yet no further trace of these has been secured.

Mr. Hollenga, who is a light sleeper, retired about 12:30 o'clock this morning. When he awoke this morning his room had been ransacked and his valuables missing. He did not arouse the entire night, and believes a handkerchief soaked in chloroform was placed over his face by the burglars when they entered his bedroom. He was the heaviest sleeper in the family. He lost over $100 in currency and jewelry and valuables worth about $600.

TOWN TOPICS

Rev. A. J. Nabbleb, pastor of the Sacred Heart church here has again entered Bon Secours hospital in Baltimore to take treatment for a chronic stomach ailment with which he has been afflicted for several years. This is his third visit to the hospital of recent years and it is expected that his course of treatment will last for about a month. While away he recently appointed assistant, Rev. Father Bullock will carry on the work here.

City registrars today pointed out that Saturday is the last day on which transfers from one ward to another can be made and that unless this formality is complied with people who do not secure transfers will be unable to vote in the November election. Morris Moore who is going over the city poll books has found a number of instances where transfers should be made.

The Northside fire department was called by telephone yesterday afternoon at 1:35 o'clock to the home of Ike Jones, 1102 Abbott street, where the two-room frame house caught fire from a defective flue. A stream of water quenched the fire after it had done some damage. The house was owned by Preston Luck. The fire department is expecting numerous calls as colder weather sets in when faulty chimneys and flues become apparent as soon as fires are started.

The condition of John W. Carter, who has been ill at home near the city for the past few days, has so much improved that there is no question about his being on hand at Chatham tomorrow morning when the company, who charges that Adkins was a pirate, will appear in the proceedings. Judge Clement will hear arguments on Saturday. The Lutzen was looted of several thousand cases of liquor and the crew made prisoners. Information filed in a French court in Bres France, where Max Jerome Phaff, an American, is under arrest as an alleged rum pirate, mentioned a man named "Adkins" of New York City as the man "higher up" who furnished funds in unlimited amounts for the smuggling of liquor into this phase of the case.

DEATH OF A CHILD
Norman Ingram, the three-year-old child of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Ingram of First Street, died yesterday evening in Edmunds hospital where he had been removed for treatment of an infection that he contracted in a short time and he succumbed. The funeral will be held from the home at 4:30 p. m. today and interment will be in Mountain View cemetery.

REVENUES INCREASE
LYNCHBURG, Va., Oct. 3.—Revenues of the Lynchburg postoffice during the quarter ending September thirty aggregated $29,253.71, an increase of $11,839.94 over the same quarter a year ago.

OIL STORAGE PLANT AT SPARTANBURG BURNING
(By The Associated Press)
SPARTANBURG, S. C., Oct. 3.—Thousands of gallons of gasoline and oil are threatened with destruction by fire which at 10:30 o'clock this morning had been burning more than three hours at the storage plant of the Blackburn Oil Company. Three tanks containing 20,000 gallons of gasoline and one containing 6,000 gallons of kerosene are on fire. It is feared the flames will spread to the plants of the Standard Oil Company, National Oil Company and Texas Company which are adjoining the Blackburn plant. Firemen have been unable to make any headway in fighting the flames. Several explosions have occurred.

Jack Whittington announced this morning that 25 Danville Scouts would leave the V. M. C. A. at seven o'clock tomorrow morning for a four-mile hike towards White Oak Mountain. Scouts taking part in the hike will be put through tests to determine their efficiency and their knowledge of Scout lore.

WEATHER FORECAST

North Carolina: Fair tonight; slightly warmer in extreme west portion; Saturday increasing cloudiness; Sunday, showers.

RECEIPTS TODAY MUCH HEAVIER, PRICES FIRM

Sales Not Completed Until Early Afternoon—Quality Slightly Lower

Sales of tobacco on the auction floors this morning exceeded those of Wednesday and Thursday. Doubt was expressed of the triple sales system would be able to dispose of the leaf offered today before early this afternoon. It was apparent late this morning that the sales could not be completed before dinner. Estimates amount of leaf here ranged from 200,000 to 250,000 pounds. While the general quality of the leaf was described as being slightly inferior to that seen here at the opening of the market prices remained firm as the commoner grades showing no drop in price.

Figures for the three days of selling will not be computed today but will be added to the full weekly report which will be made by John Bustard, secretary of the Danville Tobacco Association next Friday. Monday will see the quadruple sales started and warehousemen are looking for heavier receipts than those thus far reported, notwithstanding the pressure of work on the farm and the necessity of the growers working hard to save the rest of the crop before further frosts are recorded.

Mr. Bustard, who is also supervisor of sales is continuing the practice adopted last year of enabling the auctioneers to keep within the 260-pile-an-hour limit ordained by the regulations by placing red cards at the head of every tobacco row showing the hour the auctioneer should be at that point. This was found highly satisfactory last year. The auctioneer on finding he was lagging, speeding up or vice versa as the case might be. It also is a boon to farmers who can approximate the time their leaf will be sold.

The satisfactory opening of the Danville market finds virtually all of the growers who have been here in good spirits and has done much to lighten the morale of business generally in Danville.

HEAD OF WINE COMPANY SUED FOR $100,000

Former Member of Firm Asks Damages, Following Charges

(By The Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Alec Adkins, president of the Sunset Wine and Spirit company of Montreal, has been sued for $100,000 damages in the Supreme court here by Meyer Rosenthal, formerly connected with the company, who charges that Adkins was a pirate. Norman, falsely charged him with the piracy of the schooner Lutzen off the United States coast several months ago. It was learned today that the Lutzen was looted of several thousand cases of liquor and the crew made prisoners. OTHERS BEHIND BRIBE, PIRATES' OWNER ASSERTS

ZACK ADKINS KILLS HIMSELF AT CATAWBA

Despondency Caused by Recent Discovery of Tuberculous Condition Cause

Zacharia Adkins, widely known in Danville and Pittsylvania county, committed suicide last night at Catawba sanatorium by cutting his throat with a razor according to a telegram received this morning by Postmaster Frank Lumpkin, one of his closest friends. The tragic news was first conveyed in a telegram from Catawba to Joe Adkins, his brother, at Chatham, who relayed it to Danville. Mr. Adkins, a staunch Republican and for years affiliated with the county and the local organization became ill a few months ago but it was only four weeks ago that a definite report was received from physicians showing that both of his lungs were impaired. On being advised, he went to Asheville, N. C., in the hope of being restored to health by treatment but he remained there only one week and he returned to Chatham and there made arrangements for admittance to Catawba sanatorium where he had since been. Mr. Lumpkin saw him only a few weeks ago and while the patient was very ill, while he did not betray despondency and appeared confident that he would be restored. His condition, however, doctors found, was quite serious and it was feared that the malady was too deep seated to hope for recovery. Mr. Adkins was fifty years of age and was born in Pittsylvania near Callands where he spent most of his life. He was engaged in the tobacco business. At one time he was a buyer for the firm of George A. Lea of this city also for the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company. When the Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Marketing Association was formed he received an appointment as grader but he tendered his resignation and at the time the alarming diagnosis of his illness was made he was engaged in buying tobacco. He was in Danville frequently and was well known here. He was a member of the Danville Lodge of Elks.

Several years ago he won an appointive position at the hands of the government before he was elected to the office of internal revenue. He had been active in Republican politics and at one time was chairman of the Pittsylvania county. The funeral will be held at the home of his wife, Mrs. Adkins, tomorrow afternoon when the Danville Elks will perform their ritual. Mr. Adkins was unmarried.

REPUBLICANS TO DIRECT FIRE ON C. BRYAN TOO

Butler Sees Effort of Coalition Between La Follette and Democrats

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Republican fire will be directed against Charles W. Bryan, democratic nominee for vice president, as well as against the democratic and independent presidential candidates. It was indicated here today on the basis of a statement by Wm. W. Butler, chairman of the republican national committee.

Butler who discussed progress of the campaign and plans for the future with President Coolidge yesterday, declared last night he had seen evidence of a coalition between the democratic and La Follette forces.

In view of this, Mr. Butler declared he considered Charles W. Bryan a presidential candidate. "Since the obvious purpose of the coalition is to prevent the election into the house, where a decision does not seem possible and consequently force the election of a president by the Senate from among the vice presidential candidates."

In addition to meeting with the cabinet at the regular semi-weekly session, President Coolidge has several callers on his engagement. He expected, however, to devote much of the day to the address he will deliver tomorrow at the dedication of the monument here to the First division of the A. E. F.

Barney Dreyfuss Going to Washington to Make Personal Request to Baseball Commissioner to Re-Open Investigation and Get at Bottom of Scandal—Takes a Fling at McGraw.

(By The Associated Press)
PITTSBURGH, Oct. 3.—Retracting his previous statement, that he believed there were "others in the background" who knew all about baseball's latest scandal, Barney Dreyfuss, owner of the Pittsburgh Nationals, left for Washington today with the expressed intention of suggesting that the baseball lands open his investigation. "I am going today to repeat all I said yesterday to which some persons appear to have taken exception and if anybody wants to start anything with me I'll be there to give them all the facts they want," said the Pittsburgh magnate.

"If this thing is not cleaned up properly and to the entire satisfaction of the public by bringing every guilty man to justice—then there must be more interest. I will be in favor of eliminating the world's series for a time at least, as a growing menace to the game," said Mr. Dreyfuss. "The series is being made into a thing with no circus or show at least, then the business end of things is a growing menace."

"Manager McGraw of the New York club has been quoted as taking exception to some of my remarks and to have said that I was still sore about the defeat of the Pirates in 1921," continued the club owner. "If that happened in 1921 had been exposed Mr. McGraw might not have been so good. Mr. McGraw should be the last person ever to refer to 1921. But I am not going to get into arguments with him. He is now in a class."

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—While an undercurrent of suspense remained, the cloak of bribery scandal hanging over the New York Giants seemed to have been brushed aside temporarily at least, when the Giants today prepared for the opening of the world's series tomorrow.

Prospect of further fireworks in connection with disclosures that have brought about the banishment of Jimmy O'Connell, outfielder, and Cozy Kosloski, pitcher, from the Giants was minimized by early developments. Commissioner Landis, declaring nothing had occurred overnight to alter his view that the world's series should go on, announced that the general meet of the owners scheduled for today had been postponed. This session, called for the annual draft player process, was expected to develop a lively discussion of the scandal situation but it was announced it had been deferred until next Tuesday in New York, because the minor league player selection lists were not completed.

Today brought a further influx of baseball men, officials, club owners, and fans from all parts of the country.

Judge Landis would not discuss President Ben Johnson of the American League statement and make any further statements.

Meanwhile a fresh drive was begun on ticket speculators, who have continued to do a thriving business. The Washington Senators, under Manager "Bucky" Harris, went through a snappy drill this morning, the last workout before the series, while the Giants were slated to take the field this afternoon at 2 o'clock for their first practice since arriving last night.

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Baseball fandom, shocked and mystified by the disclosures of bribery involving the New York Giants on the eve of their world's championship struggle at the Washington Senators, awaited today developments that will determine whether the O'Connell deal to induce Heinie Sand, Philadelphia's stopper, to throw the pennant-deciding game for $500 is a "closed incident" or whether it was ramifications that may rock the game's whole structure.

Although a twenty-four hour secession of sensational charges and counter-charges failed, apparently to change the situation as it stood when Commissioner Landis, in New York Wednesday night, ruled O'Connell, young outfielder, and Dolan, coach, out of the game, speculation centered on the prospect of a joint session today of major league club officials. This meeting, originally slated for the annual routine process of drafting minor league talent, may bring to a climax the conflict of opinion manifested in the ranks of the game ruling forces since the scandal became public property.

The statement of Commissioner Landis that the series will go on, with the opening spectacle scheduled tomorrow and that no new hands over the Giants as they now are organized for the fray, followed untimely signs that a test of baseball governing authority is imminent.

Although he did not specifically refer to the assertions of Ben Johnson, president of the American League, and Barney Dreyfuss, president of the Pittsburgh Nationals, that the revelations were sufficient to warrant (Continued on Page Sixteen.)

HENRY COUNTY HARD HIT BY FLOOD WATERS

Roads and Crops Badly Damaged—Bassett Is Inundated

A comprehensive survey of the damage done in Henry county by the recent heavy rains and by the rapid rise of rivers and creeks became obtainable today. Farmers have been the greatest sufferers as their crops have been severely damaged. Whole fields of tobacco still uncultivated have been washed away and late corn in the lowlands have been laid waste. The state of Virginia, however, has suffered a tremendous loss through the damage done by the swollen of flood waters over improved and unimproved roads washing out stretches of them and presenting a task in rebuilding which will prove costly.

At Martinsburg, the river went as high as eleven feet the highest stage reached in thirteen years. The grounds of the Roundabout and the Van Pelt Clubs were deeply submerged. At Bassett still uncultivated portions of the town was flooded when Smith river ran amuck there.

Water also rose in the municipal water plant necessitating the stoppage of the plant with consequent inconvenience to power users and with damage to the machinery. The plant however, is now operating again. A. S. Graveley who publishes the Henry County Bulletin was delayed for two successive weeks on account of low water and the third week by high water.

Tourists who have reached here during the past few days have reported negotiating difficult stretches of road and being compelled to make wide detours. At many places where water still stands in the lowlands over the roads passing through them farmers have been doing a good business with their teams drawing motor cars through to the higher ground.

Senators' Leaders Express Regrets

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—Expressions of regret that scandal again has crept into major league baseball were made today by Clark Griffith, president, and "Bucky" Harris, manager of the Washington Senators. They also expressed confidence that "their boys" would annex the world's championship to the American League champion.

"I think Judge Landis is to be highly complimented on the speedy and drastic way he handled the case," Griffith said. "It took a lot of nerve to do what he did and I am glad that he did it before the series. His method in handling the matter is most commendable."

Speaking of "his boys," as he calls the Senators, Griffith declared: "They haven't been beaten yet and I don't believe any team can beat them. We are expecting a hard fight, but are going to win it."

Harris declared he regretted the "unfortunate" bribery development but said it would have no effect on his team, which would be ready to take the field against the Giants Saturday with the "thing out of mind."

"We expect a hard battle," Harris declared, "but we feel that we will win. The team is not overconfident. It is in the best of shape. I A hard battle is expected and we feel sure that we will win."

The president and manager said that unless something unforeseen happens Walter Johnson would open for Washington and that the team's lineup would be as usual.

MAJ. CRONKHITE KILLED SELF IS DEFENSE CLAIM

Pothier Will Try to Show
Wound Was Self-
Inflicted

(By The Associated Press)
TACOMA, Wash., Oct. 3.—The defense of Roland H. Pothier, charged with the murder of Major Alexander P. Cronkhite at Camp Lewis, in October, 1918, will be based on expert testimony that Major Cronkhite's wound was self-inflicted. It was indicated when his trial was resumed today.

Robert Rosenbluth, who was a captain in the 214th engineers, while Pothier was a sergeant, buxier in the same organization, is charged jointly with Pothier with the killing of Major Cronkhite. Rosenbluth will be tried later.

Decision of the defense to introduce testimony of this character was said to have been prompted when physicians who attended Major Cronkhite after he was shot gave conflicting testimony as to whether the clothing of the officer contained powder burns.

Major Henry Tucker, of Philadelphia, a physician identified there was a slight scratch on the sleeve of Cronkhite's blouse which might have been a powder burn. Tucker testified similarly before the military board of inquiry at the time of the tragedy.

Lieutenant Colonel Wm. J. Howard of Whitman, Mass., testified he found no powder burns or other stains when he examined the blouse at the time of the inquiry.

Lieut. Colonel Howard, summary court officer, who investigated the shooting, testified he interviewed Pothier and Captain Robert Rosenbluth, who also is charged with murder.

He stated that Pothier told him Rosenbluth appeared after the first shot was fired by the major at a tobacco tin on a post.

As Cronkhite fired his second shot Rosenbluth exclaimed: "You missed it," the witness said. As Cronkhite fired the third shot he said: "I hit it that time."

"Then the major cocked his gun and as he raised it slipped and twisted backward around his finger, discharging the fourth shot into his body with fatal effect," said Howard, repeating the story he said Pothier told him at the time of the investigation.

The defendant told him that he did not see the fourth shot fired and did not know the major was hit until Cronkhite exclaimed that he had been hit. Howard testified.

STATE MEDICOS TO GATHER AT STAUNTON SOON

Medical Society Will Convene October 14 For Annual Session

The fifty-fifth annual meeting of the Virginia Medical Society will open in Staunton on Tuesday, October 14th, 1924. The headquarters of the Society during the meeting will be at the new Stenwall Jackson Hotel, and everything points to a pleasant and successful meeting.

The registration desk and the bureau of information for the visitors will be situated in the lobby of the hotel. Guests coming on trains will be met by the members of the Augusta County Medical Society and ladies who have volunteered their services for this purpose, and will be taken to the Stenwall Jackson Hotel.

For Thursday afternoon an excursion to the Grottoes of the Shenandoah has been arranged to enable such of the visitors as may desire to do so to visit this great natural marvel. Any who may not care to go to the cave will be taken by automobile to any other point in the vicinity which it may be desired to visit.

On the return from these excursions the visitors will attend dress parade and inspection at the Staunton Military Academy, and later in the evening an entertainment will be tendered by the academy.

The Beverley Club has extended the privileges of its club house to the visiting physicians, and visitors' cards will be given them when they register. The Staunton Golf Club has offered its links for the tournament. Last year the Roanoke Academy of Medicine donated a cup to be held permanently by the winner of two tournaments, and the one to be played in Staunton will have the trophy for the prize. The Staunton links will also be open for the use of any individual player who may wish to use them.

Stuart Hall and the Mary Baldwin College will entertain the ladies who accompany the members of the Medical Society, and the Dunsmore Business College will detail some skilled stenographers who will be at the service of any visitor who may require their aid.

Governor Appoints Rocky Mount Man to Succeed
Deans

Governor E. Lee Trinkle has appointed Peter Saunders of Rocky Mount, as his secretary succeeding Parke B. Deans who recently retired. The appointment effective October 15, was forecast some days ago Mr. Saunders when questioned refraining from discussing the matter. Within the past few days the name of W. B. Crush last year adjutant of the Virginia Department of the American Legion has been mentioned for the place.

Mr. Saunders, who is the son of the late Judge Edward W. Saunders, of the Virginia supreme court of appeals, has resided all his life in Rocky Mount. He was educated at Hampden-Sydney College, and Washington and Lee University, receiving the law degree from the latter institution in 1914.

Mr. Saunders practiced law in Rocky Mount for several years with Judge J. P. Lee, and for the past six years has been editor and owner of the Franklin Chronicle. He has been United States commissioner for seven years, and is chairman of the county Democratic committee.

He also is chairman of the Franklin County Davis-Bryan Club, and chairman of the Franklin county national Democratic financial campaign.

Mr. Saunders is a vestryman in the Episcopal church at Rocky Mount; a Royal Arch Mason; member of Franklin county camp, Sons of Confederate Veterans, and assistant judge-advocate-in-chief, Sons of Confederate Veterans.

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Swinehart, missionaries of the Southern Presbyterian church in Korea, who are spending a week in the city, addressed the women of the First church yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. P. N. Burton. Both Mr. and Mrs. Swinehart spoke, the former emphasizing the great good that has already been accomplished in Korea through the gifts of the people in America in support of teachers and workers there. He said the Korean people are eagerly taking hold of the principle of Christianity and using it in their daily lives with a result that is startling to the eyes of those who have always lived in the midst of a Christian community and accepted its benefits as a matter of course. His talk was practical, encouraging and inspirational to church people at home, bringing them into closer acquaintance with the people of the foreign field. Mrs. Swinehart told of the training of women in many lines of handwork through which they utilize the things they have in the best way. She was optimistic in her outlook on the work being done by American missionaries in the Orient and in most charming manner commended much of her enthusiasm to the audience present yesterday. Mr. and Mrs. Swinehart have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Overly, during their stay in Washington, D. C.

Stops itching—
Reduces irritation—
Clears away skin
trouble

If you have today a spot of eczema, an irritation on your skin, cleanse the affected part by bathing with Resinol Soap, then smooth in gently with the fingers a coating of Resinol Ointment. One application frequently stops the itching completely because the special soothing healing properties of Resinol help to sink deep into the pores where the trouble really lies and restore a normal condition.

Use Resinol Soap daily for your toilet and bath. It helps to keep the skin healthy. Ask your druggist.

RESINOL

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membrane and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung trouble. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membrane and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchitis, asthmatic bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

"Jack" Power to Make 2 Addresses Here On Sunday

Jack Montague of Washington, described as a forceful speaker, has been secured by the Salvation Army to deliver two addresses here on Sunday. Both appearances will be at the Majestic theatre, the first at half past three o'clock when he will address men only on "The Naked Truth" and the second at eight o'clock when he will speak on "The Prodigal Daughter" in which, it is understood, he will make an appeal for a single standard of morals.

Mr. Power who has been termed "The Diete Gospel Gating Gun" was at one time associated with the government in the role of secret service agent. He also has been a professional baseball player, big league umpire, and a lightweight fighter.

FOR THE STOUT WOMAN
If one is inclined toward "umpiness," one should be very careful about selecting summer frocks. They should, of course, be comfortable, but not unbearably so. An Intimate Story of Innermost Emotion Revealed in Private Letters

Don't jump at the conclusion Sally, that I have been making love to a regular married woman. Mabel Carter has not lived with her husband for more than two years. It is one of the greatest tragedies I ever heard of that parted them. She tells me that so heart sick and unhappy was she that she never really cared whether she was divorced or not, until she fell in love with me.

She had made up her mind before that that she would have nothing more to do with men. One had not only bruised her soul, but had nearly annihilated her body.

I wish you could have seen her when she told me her story, Sally. She is the sweetest, the prettiest little doll of a woman you can possibly imagine—something you want to take in your arms and kiss her tears away. She is exactly the opposite of the great, splendid example of femininity that you are. I always felt young and boyish and immature when I was with you, Sally, but the moment I saw Mabel I wanted to take her in my arms and help her to bear her burdens, if not take them all off her shoulders.

I am quite sure I have already done this.

I wonder if you will remember her, Sally? There was a lot in the papers about her when you and Sam first came here, and she was very badly used, both by the court and the newspapers. She was not at all to blame that her husband was unreasonably jealous of her. He shot that man and tried to kill her, simply because, through a chain of unfortunate circumstances, the man had brought her home from downtown one cold, drizzly night in his limousine.

The murder trial was a sensational one, and the defense tried to make out that the murdered man and Mabel were lovers. But just to look at her, Sally, you would know that could not be.

I will be glad if Mr. Prescott does come over here and take the plant over, for I am sure you will come with him, and then you will be such a help to reinstate Mabel in the eyes of the world. Poor girl, she says her own sex have simply stretched her on the rack of torture, and that she has not a woman friend. I have told her that you are not that kind of a woman, Sally, and that I know you will love her as soon as you have seen her.

I am almost sure that Mr. Hamilton is no better. In fact, I think he grows a little weaker every day, and although as his private secretary I am virtually manager here, and have been ever since he was taken ill, I will be very glad if someone else comes in to take some of the responsibility and hard work away from me. Mabel complains that I am working much too hard, and that I never have a day off except Sunday to be with her. When we go anywhere of an evening I am usually so tired that the moment I have eaten my dinner I want to go to sleep. She says when she marries again she wants to have a husband who will play around with her. Poor child, I think she has never had much happiness, now am going to try and give it to her.

You probably know a good deal about this new business deal. I wish you would write me about it; and above all else, be sure and write Mabel a little note telling her you are glad to see me in love and happy—for to tell the truth, dear, I think she is just a little jealous of you. You and I both know she need not be.

Sincerely yours, JIM.

TOMORROW: Letter from Ruth Burke to Leslie Prescott.

Good Morning Judge!

The only case to come to trial in the police court this morning was a charge of larceny against W. A. Adams, colored, which was heard and dismissed. Harry L. Dix, arrested by Detective Joe Lewis, is being held in jail as a deserter from the army.

DEATH OF J. A. DOCKERY

The death occurred this morning at 7:30 o'clock of John Andrew Dockery at his home in New Town, opposite Schoolfield. Deceased who was 32 years of age, was preceded to the grave by his wife, leaves his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James L. Dockery, also three small sons, and one brother, J. O. Dockery and one sister, Mrs. Ida Rhodes. He was a member of the Schoolfield Baptist church. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon from the home by Rev. Norman Sawyers, the hour having not been decided early this afternoon.

Miss Faye Grogan, of Whitwell, was in town shopping this morning.

Visitors to the International Petroleum exposition at Tulsa, Okla., in October will get a look at this young beauty, Miss Evelyn Florence Conrad, 17, who will represent Colorado.

LEATHERMAN IS CONVICTED IN TARRING CASE

Found Guilty in Connection With Tarring and Feathering Girl

(By The Associated Press.) — A verdict of guilty was returned by the jury today in the case of Harry Leatherman, indicted for tarring and feathering Dorothy Grandon of Martinsburg, W. Va., at Myersville, near here, last July.

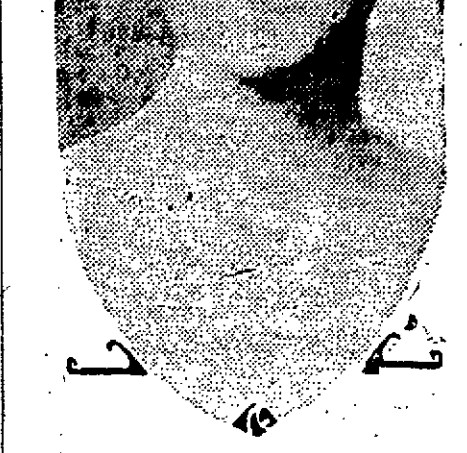

Leatherman was convicted on charges of aiding and abetting in the attack on the Grandon girl.

Leatherman was admitted to bail pending sentence.

Leatherman who is one of 13 men indicted in the case, has been on trial in circuit court here since last Monday.

State's Attorney Storin said the next tar and feathering case would be called for trial next Wednesday.

Witnesses for the state testified that Leatherman was the organizer and leader of the mob, although Mrs. Mary Shank has pleaded guilty to the actual tarring and is awaiting sentence. The defense endeavored to show that Leatherman was merely

CO-OPERATIVE ASS'N GIVES ACCOUNT OF DEALINGS

RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 2.—The careful stewardship of the tobacco and money for its members by the Tobacco Growers' Co-operative association was proved in open court yesterday when the association accounted for every pound in twenty grades of approximately 18,000 pounds of tobacco delivered by B. F. Pollock and brothers, of Jones county, against whom Superior Court Judge C. B. Midgette, holding court at Newbern, continued injunctions in a case which proved a complete vindication of the association's methods of payment and accounting.

Judge Midgette failed to find that there was any breach of contract whatever by the association or that the defendants had been imposed upon in any way. He continued the injunction against them, which prevents their delivering tobacco outside of the association until the final hearing of the case.

The Pollock brothers had alleged that the association had failed to make proper accounting and was indebted to them to the amount of more than $3,000. The association appeared by counsel to welcome this opportunity to open its books and make a full accounting with one of its 98,000 members, and the result in yesterday's proceedings, as in other similar cases, proved to be a complete vindication of its methods of handling its funds and accounting for them to the members. The association yesterday brought into court all of the desired information. For the 1922 crop it showed the number of pounds in each grade delivered by the Pollock brothers, embracing the twenty grades. It further showed the total pounds delivered in each grade in eastern North Carolina, the exact amount each grade was sold for, the average selling price per pound for each grade, and the price realized from the sale of the members' tobacco. Cancelled checks showing payments to date were presented and deductions authorized by the contract for expense. Warehouse investments and reserve were shown to the penny, with the net sums due the defendants.

Colonel W. T. Joyner, resident counsel for the association, who represented it in this case, stated today that in this one case the association "has effectively countered insidious and premeditated slanders recently circulated against it."

NEWS OF SPRING GARDEN

SPRING GARDEN, Va., Oct. 2.—Frost and ice in some exposed places was recorded here Tuesday morning. The early arrival of frost following several days of rainy weather creates an unfavorable situation in farm circles. Due to the late ripening numbers of farmers still have much uncut tobacco in the fields.

A petition is before the people of this section for a right-of-way and soil between here and Shookoe for a gray-soil road to connect with the one from Chatham by Shookoe, Luck and Pickaway down into gray soil roads in Halifax. This three mile section between Spring Garden and Shookoe is an important connecting link in the system and will greatly facilitate local travel from this section to Danville. It is hoped there may be liberal support of this enterprise on the part of the people.

Miss Elsie Hayden of the High school faculty here was a week-end visitor to her parental home near Grana.

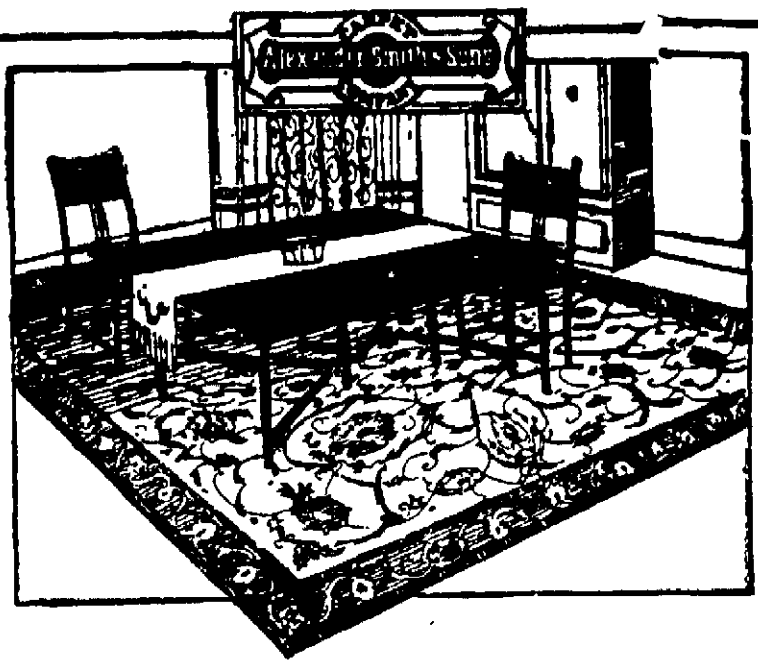

The Patrons' League held their fortnightly meeting in the High school auditorium last night.

Principal A. R. Marshall and his competent assistants have the season's work well launched, and both literary and athletic features are receiving due attention. The lateness of the season in farming circles has retarded enrollment in the school thus far, but each week marks the arrival of new pupils and prospects indicate a full and prosperous term. The school here offers four years' accredited work and affords good opportunities to youths in the surrounding territory who are ready for high school work.

James A. Conway, Jr., principal of Brookville High school, was a last week-end visitor in his parental home here.

Mrs. R. S. Crowe and little daughter, Josephine, of Kentucky, were recent visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Terry here.

Rev. D. N. Yarbrow, pastor of the local Presbyterian church, has returned from his vacation and preached here Sunday.

PUT THEM IN UNIFORM

State Motor Vehicle Commissioner J. M. Hayes has announced that the force of state traffic officers will be placed in sections of Virginia. will be uniformed and that there will therefore be no question of traffic law violators on apprehension being dealt with by the duly appointed agents of the law. The decision reached by Mr. Hayes in this matter is one which might well be followed by the state prohibition department whose officers should be uniformed and given the semblance of regulated enforcement officers.

Stories of hold-ups and impersonation of officers are becoming too frequent. Indeed a new departure for the criminal element has been rendered possible through the failure of the state authorities to clothe their enforcement agents in uniforms which would not only add dignity to the department but would eliminate that fear which is constantly experienced by men and women who from time to time are told to halt by the roadside to answer interrogatories by these officers. While the indiscriminate detention of motorists who are abroad late at night is to be deplored and in our opinion hardly justified, if the prohibition department insists on continuing the practice it would eliminate the element of fright by putting its men in official cloth. In a recent experience on the Henry county road—one of several—those who were detained are still uncertain whether they were the victims of bona fide officers of a group of men who were acting without any official relationship to the enforcement department. No explanation has been given. Enquiries made at the office of the Henry county sheriff revealed no report or any knowledge of the incident and the place is also without knowledge.
Adoption of a uniform for state enforcement officers will result also in sparing officers of the law from unjust criticism and suspicion. People will at least know that they are being dealt with by the law and not by criminals impersonating it.

THE BLUNDERING WILBUR

How unfortunate for the cause of world peace and how contradictory to this nation's national role as peace-maker for the world was that thoughtless and arrogant declaration of Secretary of the Navy Wilbur on the Pacific Coast that cold steel has a way of cooling international heat quickly and thoroughly.
While representatives of fifty-four nations of the earth assembled at Geneva were seeking to establish world peace by arbitration, a representative of the American government talked of peace by cold steel.
Why should the most powerful, the richest and the least rancored nation on earth stand out alone in the belief that steel is the only way of cooling international passion alloying racial rancor and securing justice between nations?
In the World War steel once again proved itself powerless in the restoration and perpetuation of peace. In the future it will only be the port of last resort, a threat after reason fails. The League of Nations' council has defined the place of armament in the cause of world peace. The cold sanc-

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS.

Change

I recently visited a great Sanitarium. I sat in the lobby and studied those who were there. They came from all over the world. I wondered why each one was there. I talked with doctors and those who came to be treated. After I was on the train to come home I decided that the one thing that filled Sanitariums and helped more than anything else to add to doctor's incomes was the lack of change in people's lives.

Here was a woman who had given the best of her years to home work. Sweeping floors, running up and down stairs; worrying about maids and what might happen to the robust, healthy children. Sitting near was a man of large affairs who said that this was his first "vacation." A young girl who thought it foolish to spend time on exercise, reading, useful occupations. Her only thought was to have a good time without conserving her resources.

But there in that Sanitarium the change was doing them a world of good. They were kept so busy that they had little time to think of their self-inflicted troubles.

What we all need is change. Not that we should become rolling stones with no definite goal in view; but with set purposes all the time freshen ourselves up through various useful occupations; even doing foolish things to add color.

The broadest thinking people I know are those who have traveled much and seen much.

One of the happiest finest man I have ever met was one who had devoted 20 years to the acquiring of a wonderful art collection. At the same time he had become the head of one of the most important branches of a world-wide corporation.

I know of a woman who has three children, plays golf and tennis, rides horseback and is accomplished in many other ways. Yet she is a fine mother and the wife of a man who does not earn a large income. But they play together and punctuate their lives with change. They will go far—and you won't find them in Sanitariums in middle life.

Do one thing better than it has ever been done before. But do many things—many things—happily. Learn the thrill that comes through change.

THE REFEREE

UNEXPECTED

We live very close to the Thin Wall that separates us from the hereafter, even though many do scheme and act recklessly and without conscience as if they expected to live forever.

William Olson of Chicago came home to his rooming-house so happy and full of pep that he danced a jig and fell dead. His engine was worn out and he didn't know it.

SODA

Just 50 years since the soda fountain was invented. There are 110,000 of them in America now. They all date back to the pioneer in Philadelphia. The soda fountain dispenses 5000 million drinks and dishes a year. A gigantic industry. Why not erect a black marble monument to Sambo Jackson, negro chef, who invented ice cream by accident?

RIGHTS

Sixteen states band together to sue the national government. They seek the return of 300 million dollars of direct taxes that were paid after the Civil War. These taxes were levied on certain manufactured goods. The claim for refund is complicated.

This lawsuit reminds us of something most of us have forgotten—the matter of state rights. Our national government is a league of small countries or states. Uncle Sam is vital. But he is not all-embracing and supreme in everything, even though police power is about the only remaining major function of local government that hasn't been centralized in Washington, D. C.

HOSS

New York City checks up and finds 65,000 horses still work in its streets. No danger of Dobbin becoming extinct by competition with the auto. More horses now than when horseless carriages were invented. There'll be still more when airplanes swarm by millions.

Inventions no longer displace. We need both, old as well as new. Progress is extension rather than displacement.

The death rate from tuberculosis has been reduced 68 per cent. in Framingham, Mass., after seven years of effort. This town was selected as a laboratory experiment by the National Tuberculosis Association.

A disease, whose death rate can be cut 65 per cent., can eventually be wiped out entirely.
If the time ever comes when man completely conquers germs, the problem of over-population will be worse than all diseases combined. Over-population, of course, will by its very nature breed new diseases. There is no escape from death.

The Lie

My uncle is a goodly man, no great sin marks his life. But once when he was very young he led unto his wife to save a lengthy argument. "On business, dear," said he. "I shall be kept down town tonight. He played cards till 10 o'clock. Then he chuckled soft and low. To think he'd got away with it. And Aunt would never know.
My aunt was a trust soul. She swallowed every word. But when the morn broke bright and clear some startling things she heard.
A neighbor's wife dropped in to chat and settling in a chair. Said she: "Next Sunday I suppose a bonnet new you'll wear." Your husband had good luck last night from what I understand Jack paid him forty cents to see four aces in his hand.
My aunt could not believe her ears. Blushed a blush for shame. Then later on unto her door another neighbor came. And just to make a little talk, said dear old Mrs. Brazz. "I hear your husband won last night by the name of Billy Benson's stake." All through the day whither she went from all she chanced to meet. She got the information of my uncle's first deceit.
My uncle is a goodly man, no great sin marks his life. But once when he was very young he led unto his wife. And old Mrs. Brazz, she looks on him with doubt. And oft reminds him of the time she found his baseness out. Yes, though 'twas forty years ago, still "uncle" sadly weeps. That half the trouble of this world is caused by little tales.

Bridge

With ROOSEVELT IN AFRICA
by W. Robert Foran
© 1924 NEA Service Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Robert Foran, newspaper correspondent, accompanies the Theodore Roosevelt expedition into Africa in 1909. They arrive at Mombassa, the "gateway to British East Africa," and then make the long railroad journey to their first camp in the game-croved Kapiti Plains.
After a wonderfully successful shooting trip in the Sotik country, the expedition camps for more hunt-journeys at a farm called Sagal-Sai. After several other trips they invade the Guaso Nyero elephant country and meet with more good sport. The Roosevelt expedition is the Roosevelt hunt, but the Roosevelt returned so late that they were only just in time to change their clothes for this party. They had to forego their lunch. There were two native bands playing on the lawn, one a drum-and-life band and the other a brass band. The bandmen were all Baganda boys from the Catholic mission schools.
It speaks volumes for the training the boys had received and the education that they could be taught

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

There was much detail work to be accomplished in those crowded days in connection with my long journey through the Uganda country and down the Nile.
The fitting out of such an expedition required considerable thought and organization. Every single eventuality had to be considered, and provided for. Food had to be carried for the native porters, for it is impossible to depend upon food supplies being obtainable en route. Every additional load of food carried entailed the engaging of another porter, and each porter extra to the original estimate entailed a recalculation of the food rations. In addition to these worries, I had to make provision against any sudden change of plan made by the Roosevelt expedition, which might entail a longer period of time spent on safari, and, therefore, more porters' food required.
I had been feeling sick for some days, to add to my worries. Just before I had left Nairobi I had had the misfortune to get a bad cold while riding a strange horse. He bolted with me, with the butt between his withers, and I was mounting, and before I could step him, we had taken a wild gallop across country, and had struck a five-tramp wire fence at full speed just after jumping an open ditch.
We had both turned two complete somersaults over the fence, and had been stunned for a few moments. The horse had fallen on top of me, and I was badly injured. The day after my arrival at Entebbe with Roosevelt, a strange and painful swelling had appeared near my groin. It caused me great suffering and made it difficult to walk. But despite the doctor's advice of my doctor, I had determined to go through with the trip and not turn back at this interesting stage.
As by now I found it was too painful to attempt to walk or ride my horse, I arranged for a machila—a which is a hammock slung on a pole, and carried by four porters on their shoulders. It was another complication of my intricate calculations for food supplies, but it was essential.
On Dec. 22, Colonel Roosevelt, Kermit and Knowles started off shortly after dawn to attempt to secure a group of the rare swamp-living antelope, the Sitatunga. It is only to be found in the swamps of Uganda, and it is very rarely shot. A few had been reported to be living in the swamps near Kampala. Kermit lived up to his reputation gained in British East Africa and killed a splendid specimen of the male. Knowles assured me—and he is a great hunter himself—that it was an exceptionally fine head and that Kermit was most lucky to secure it. The colonel did not see one at all, although he worked hard enough for a kill in the arid and leech-infested swamps during most of that morning and in the great heat. They were only able to get the one specimen, and were never fortunate enough to complete their group.

There was a large and well-attended "at home" at Mr. Knowles' house on the afternoon of the Sitatunga hunt, but the Roosevelt returned so late that they were only just in time to change their clothes for this party. They had to forego their lunch. There were two native bands playing on the lawn, one a drum-and-life band and the other a brass band. The bandmen were all Baganda boys from the Catholic mission schools.
It speaks volumes for the training the boys had received and the education that they could be taught ing was rapidly growing worse, and it was with great misgivings that I prepared for my long march on the trail of Theodore Roosevelt. I had gone too far to turn back.

Eventually we began our march, the porters leading the way. They were headed by a native drummer who beat a monotonous tattoo for the edification of my Baganda porters and to my own annoyance.

I followed them, lying in a canvas hammock slung on a long pole, which was carried by two porters alternately on either their heads or their shoulders. Two other porters followed behind me, to act as a relief party for the hammock bearers. My feet were on a level with, or somewhat higher than, my head, and I was most intolerably uncomfortable. The prospects of those days of marching was far from being alluring.

The roads were very muddy and slippery after the heavy rain, and our progress was slow. I was thankful that there was only 10 miles to cover to Kisimbi camp, for the pain was, at times, almost unbearable.
The porting of the hammock made matters much worse. On reaching my first camp at sunset, I sent back a messenger to Kampala to bring me out a rickshaw, feeling positive it would be more comfortable than traveling by hammock.
The Baganda had erected a most palatial camp for the Roosevelt expedition—as they did throughout Uganda and I made myself at home in it.

There was a neat stockade of dried elephant grass all around the camp. The road on either side had been planted with banana trees so as to form an avenue to the bandas (Grass-roofed open-sided huts). The bandas had been stuck into the walls of the bandas and grass strewn along by their reverend conductor to play the American national anthem, with but few minor slips and false notes, after only a couple of days' practice. That same evening there was another big dinner party at Mr. Knowles' house, and the king of Uganda and his regent were present.

On the following morning, Colonel Roosevelt accompanied Capt. W. F. S. Edwards, the Inspector General of the day before Christmas Eve, Colonel Roosevelt and Kermit rode off on their mules—horses had been discarded in Uganda owing to the bad climate—on the first lap of their long jungle-land journey.

Through Uganda to Holma I had arranged to follow on the morning of Christmas Day. But when the day dawned there was such a very heavy rainstorm that I had to postpone my departure until the afternoon. So I did not leave Kampala until two days after the expedition had started off. I hope to overtake it by making forced marches. Meanwhile the pain and the swell-the path inside of the compound. I spent Christmas night here, alone with my porters. This was the fourth or fifth Christmas Day that I had spent under canvas in either East Africa or Central Africa during six years. I had no heart for Christmas festivities, for I was worried with the pain that racked me. I consumed a morsel of food and retired to bed.

I spent a troubled night—could not sleep more than a few hours. I was continually awakened by severe spasms of pain. The dawn was a welcome sight.
The mosquitoes were very bad at Kisimbi, but my net protected me from their attack. All through that long and dreary night of wakefulness, the peace and quiet was disturbed occasionally by the distant call of a native, the howling of a cow in a nearby village, or the fitful laughter of a straying hyena—and as an accompaniment to these sounds there was the persistent concert of the buzzing mosquitoes.
After several days of traveling in great agony, I was met on the road by a messenger from Cummingham. He had written to say that Colonel Roosevelt was much distressed by the news of my illness and the great pain I was suffering, and he wanted me to come to his camp and consult Dr. Mearns, and see if he could not do something to relieve the pain.

DRAKES BRANCH, October 2.—(Grapovine Wireless).—Casual conversation, heard at the warehouse this morning:
"How are all the folks, Mr. Tatters?" we asked as an old friend, Ragoon Tatters, came into town this morning with a load of tobacco.
"Well, wife is on the puny list, replied Ragoon. My least boy, Ragoon, Jr., is chilling. Granddad is grumpy, three or four of the other children have got the mumps, my oldest gal ran away tuther night and married some with us. Greedy got bit on the big toe by a snapping turtle yesterday and the blame thing wouldn't let go till the sun went down. "Ruffie" and Runt are beginning to go with the gals and tuther night they had a fight with a passel of kids outside of the church and got clawed and wallered till they look like they'd met a bunch of bears. Some cuss—I reckon likely it's a feller that I swapped hooses with—was taking a shot at me once in a while, but not hitting me this far; the baby swallered a fishhook or something that-a-way this morning, and was still yelling bloody murder when I left. Outside of them matters I reckon were doing about as common."
In a motor accident case recently the motorist said that the injured man would persist in walking right in the middle of the road, judging from the state of some of our roads. Bunks think it quite possible that the unfortunate pedestrian had got into a groove.

When his little girl friend gives him a note containing a lock of hair. When he is presented with an air-gun on his birthday.

It isn't the harmfulness of rouge and other beauty aids that impresses us, signs Ed., but their utility.

The doctor's prescription had been for the patient to drink hot water an hour before meals.

Doctor, complained the ailing one, after he had tried the prescribed remedy, I drank hot water for about five minutes and I felt like a balloon. I couldn't drink it for an hour to save my life.

Foolish question No. 8,842,368. Would you child-en like an ice cream cone?

There was a time when the barbers east only shaves at be-whiskered men; now, says Sam Turner, the same glances are sent at the women still wearing long hair.

Did you ever notice that it is not half as far going to the river to fish as it is coming back after you didn't get any?

A big store in Richmond has opened a "barber shop for women only." Now if the men can only get all the women to go to it.

A hick town is a place where there isn't anything to do except watch a widow, married Ed. Harris.

News of County in Crisp Paragraphs

CHATHAM, Va., Oct. 2.—The Tobacco Growers' Co-operative association market at this place threw open its doors for the third crop on Tuesday morning under very promising prospects, and while the sales of the first day were light the growers were very well pleased, both at advances and the weight that was being shown in the crop. The crop is yet far from being all housed, and indications are that a greater quantity of tobacco is now outstanding than at this time for quite a long time. On both Wednesday and Thursday mornings frost formed, but no damage has been reported. The crop was late in being planted, and then the continued cool and wet weather at planting time delayed growth. At the same time, plant enemies were very destructive. Then came a rather long dry spell, all of which had its influence both as to quality and growth, and then the rather unusual cool weather in August have all helped to keep the crop from ripening. The crop as a whole is very good, but not up to the standard in every instance. Some farmers have splendid crops, it has cured well and will command good prices, while the others who will barely make expenses.

The heavy rain of the past few days has delayed cutting late tobacco, but with warmer weather and frost not coming for two weeks or more this tobacco will improve in quality. It is left standing until ripe. The corn crop is fair, but where on low lands it was damaged by the recent heavy rainfall, which was about the heaviest at one time during the entire year. As a whole farmers have a right to complain. The garden has been good, the wheat crop was above the average, fruits of all kinds have been plentiful, and where the larder is not well supplied the reason is obvious.

The Garden Club was delightfully entertained by Mesdames G. E. Thompson and S. I. White on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Thompson. The meeting was of unusual interest, and one member, Mrs. J. D. Jones, presented raspberries of splendid quality stating that she had not been without them during the entire fruiting season and was gathering about one quart each day. Other matters of interest were discussed, one being the Flower Show which is to be held here on the tenth of this month and is always of interest to all lovers of flowers, both here and for miles around. Following the usual business of the meeting, refreshments were served. This will be the last meeting of the Garden Club for the summer.

Mrs. Nannie J. White continues ill at the home of her daughter, Mrs. F. Marshall.

The Democrats of Pittsylvania county were assigned the duty of raising $500 for the political campaign now on, and Chairman Reid is busy seeing all will or will not contribute. This town has raised more than two hundred dollars of the amount, and with a little "hustle" the remainder will be forthcoming.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Hunt Hargrave are this week in Lynchburg attending the Gunn-Gordon wedding.

Miss Margaret Grant, of Danville, is the house-guest of Miss Ruth Keen North Chatham extension.

Miss Minnie Thelma Shelton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Shelton, of the county near Sheva, and Josiah B. Motley, son of J. C. Motley, of the same community, were quietly married on Wednesday night, only relatives and a few friends witnessing the ceremony. Both young people are well and favorably known in their neighborhood, and the groom is a progressive young farmer. They will make their home near Sheva.

James S. Jones and family have moved into their beautiful new home on Main street, which has very recently been completed and is one of the handsomest homes of the town. The citizens generally welcome them.

In New York

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—A shot rang out in Esthonia, a little country on the Gulf of Finland.

The man who had been fired at, complained to the authorities. At a hearing next day false witness made it appear that the man who had been shot at was the one who fired the shot. Years of unfair imprisonment would follow.

A few years of toil hatched the nest egg of money that brought his family from across the sea.

Today his eldest daughter is buyer for one of the largest department stores on the Pacific coast—a San Francisco establishment.

It is customary for her to spend $50,000 a month.

She is Miss Aulick. Daily she goes into the market places of New York, choosing merchandise for her store at the other side of the country.

Her salary is more than that of executives of many important organizations. She is known as one of the shrewdest buyers in a highly competitive market.

Starting her work at the age of 15, Miss Aulick had scant opportunity to attend school. Yet she is exceptionally well read, associates with intellectuals and is a constant devotee of the opera.

Her brothers and sisters all have gone to college. Just at present the youngest is a member of the football squad of an eastern university. Yet none of them have been successful as this young woman who educated herself.

Cross-word puzzle workers take their heads seriously. But at a recent tournament for the puzzle enthusiasts the fight had narrowed down to two persons, a man and a woman. All afternoon they had been fighting for the victory in the final match.

The opening sales were larger than expected—Weather and crop conditions considered. Much of the tobacco being in bad order. We would advise farmers as far as possible to guard against bringing their tobacco to market in too soft order.

Prices on the common and medium grades were satisfactory to the farmer. Good deal of the better grades were under the market but we believe will sell better from now on.

The average for the opening day last season was $17.90. The average for the opening day this season was $22.71, making the average for this season $4.81 more than last. We wish to extend our sincere thanks to our patrons and can assure you that we will do all in our power to get you the best price possible.

The woman won by default and the large gallery was dumbfounded.

Here is an unusual auto license: It will be noticed that each pair of figures is followed by a pair which make a number just twice as large as the first pair. For example: 22 is followed by 44; 24 by 48; 44 by 88. Of course there is no pair following 88; hence the conditions are fulfilled as far as possible.

What is the smallest possible license number (of six figures) that will fulfill the same conditions?

DRIVES PLANE 125 MILES PER HOUR

(By The Associated Press)

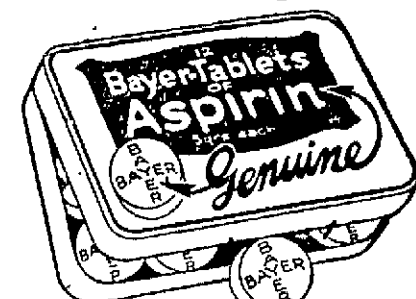

DAYTON, O., Oct. 2.—Marked by close finishes and enlivened with the antics of daring stunt fliers, the first day's program of the international air races was presented at Wilbur Wright Field today before a crowd estimated unofficially at 12,000. Thousands of others, however, witnessed the events from vantage points around the field.

Charles S. Jones, of Garden City, L. I., was the winning pilot of the day, coming out ahead in two races, each carrying a $1,000 prize. He easily outdistanced competing fliers in the Central Labor Union Trophy race and was judged the winner of the "On-to-Dayton" race, scoring 239 points. In the Central Labor Union Trophy event, he flew a Curtiss Oriole, maintaining an average speed of 125.05 miles an hour.

Two Kentucky Ladies Tell of Their Successful Use of CARDUI

Very Ill at the Change

THE first I knew of CARDUI was about twenty-three years ago. I was in bed two or three weeks and didn't get any stronger. I had been trying different remedies without results. I was so weak I couldn't sit up. I felt faint and dizzy and suffered with my side. I was nervous, too, until I couldn't stand anything.

I sent and got a bottle of (Cardui). It seemed to help me. After the first few doses I was stronger, and could eat and sleep, which I hadn't been able to do. I took four or five bottles. It built me up, and I was soon doing my work. I did not forget Cardui.

When change of life came on, I was very ill. My head hurt. I was dizzy and weak at times, and felt like I was sinking away or faint. I would tremble in my hands and knees. I took Cardui—about five bottles in all, and just did splendidly. I didn't have any more trouble through the change.

I do some nursing, especially of women with new babies, and so many times I recommend Cardui for weakness before childbirth. My last case was benefited by the use of Cardui, and Mrs. L. T. was very grateful to me for recommending it to her.

Awful Cramping Spells

I FEEL that I owe a great, great deal to CARDUI, and I am glad to tell of my experience with this wonderful tonic for the benefit of other women who suffer as I have.

For a number of years, I was in dreadful health. Every three weeks, regularly, I would be seized with the most awful spells of cramping.

The pain was so intense that I have taken as high as eight grains of an opiate and not had the least relief. I would scream—I could not help it, I was in such agony, with pains across my chest, back and lower abdomen. It felt as if a huge knife were cutting me in two.

I don't know how I ever lived through it. When one of these spells would pass, I spent my time dreading the next one which I knew would surely come. Nothing did me the least good, and I tried lots of things. Everybody would say, "try this" or "that" and I did, but with no relief from anything.

One day a Ladies Birthday Almanac came into my hands. I read it casually but became interested because I read about a case similar to my own. I decided I would try Cardui just to see if it was as good as some of the women's statements said. I sent for a bottle and began to take it.

At first my improvement was slow. I could notice a slight change for the better. This gave me hope, so I kept up the medicine, taking it regularly—that is where so many women make their mistake, they are not regular about it. After I had taken three or four bottles I felt much better. I was delighted, because the spells were less intense and did not last so long. For two years I kept up the medicine, taking more than twenty bottles of Cardui.

The attacks which I dreaded left me completely. I do not have them now at all. I am a well woman, and I feel as if I owe my good health to Cardui.

FASHION NOTES

JERSEY DRESS

A very attractive blue jersey dress has appliqued designs of red and white felt on the sleeves.

NEW TRIMMING

Casselle fur is one of the very latest trimmings and is very much liked on wool frocks.

DRESSES PLAIN

Dresses this season may be plain but coats are most elaborate and trimmed. Fur is used lavishly on them and the linings are more gorgeous and more trimmed than ever before.

SMART BRIM

The brim of a smart brown felt hat is made of narrow folds of velvet just a few shades darker.

LITTLE TRIMMING

The panne velvet hat with very little trimming save corded ribbon is seen on the most elegantly dressed women.

DYED FURS

Dyed furs are very fashionable this season, and furs trimmed with braiding or combined with contrasting shades to form checks or stripes are seen.

WAITED FOR HER

When Viola Sherment, dancer of the Pavley-Oukrainsky ballet troupe, arrived at New York from a tour of South America she found Ralph Gearson of Chicago waiting to claim her as his bride. Viola had promised to wed Ralph after "five years of a career." She now calls her career a success, so they will wed. She is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Burkhardt, especially prominent in Chicago.

SURE PROOF

"I had shaken down my furnace. The ashes had been shoveled into the can. I noticed what I thought was a dead cinder on the floor. I picked it up to throw it with the others. Inside it was still red hot. My fingers felt like they were on fire. I rushed upstairs and poured LICARBO on my hand. The pain subsided at once and not a blister appeared. LICARBO is certainly the most wonderful preparation that I have ever heard of."

That man has never since been without LICARBO. HUNT'S
DAILY LETTER

By HARRY B. HUNT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—October, 1924, is destined to be a big month in the life of S. Parker Gilbert, Jr., youthful financial genius, who while in his twenties, as under-secretary of the United States Treasury, won from the government's fiscal workers the title of "The Brains of the Treasury."

On Oct. 8 Gilbert will be married to Miss Louis Todd of Louisville, Ky. Three days later, Oct. 11, he will sail with his bride to take up his labors as agent general in the administration of German reparations under the Dawes plan.

The Gilbert-Todd nuptials, incidentally, will cause quite an exodus of official and social notables from Washington to Louisville. Gilbert, as a most "eligible" young man during the days of his service as under-secretary, was socially as well as officially popular.

His bride-to-be, who has spent two winters in Washington, when she was active in amateur society theatricals, is regarded as virtually a Washingtonian.

Announcement of the Gilbert-Todd engagement, however, was something of a surprise to their friends here. Gilbert had been engaged by rumor at various times to various Washington bachelors, and at one time it was whispered he was to become the son-in-law of his then boss, Secretary Mellon.

All these rumors, however, proved baseless, and Gilbert's friends at last decided he was wedded to finance that he was an unmarried individual after all, with a heart as impenetrable as the chilled-steel vaults in the treasury sub-basement.

But the reparations job revealed the romance. It hadn't been expected to announce the engagement for a couple of months yet, and the wedding wasn't to have been until January.

But could even the most able financial wizard keep his mind on reparations, in Europe, while his sweetheart was back in Louisville, Ky., U. S. A.?

Gilbert and Miss Todd decided that he couldn't. At least that he shouldn't have to try.

A sweetheart in Louisville it was agreed, would be a bigger handicap than a bride in Berlin.

So the date for the wedding was advanced four months, the hurried invitations sent out and Gilbert reserved the bridal suite on a liner for France.

Much mystery has been maintained as to the reasons, if any, back of the recent week-end visit of Senator Medill McCormick and Mrs. McCormick at the White House.

Medill, having just been defeated for renomination as senator from Illinois, it is figured would hardly be called in for a political conference.

"What then?" the curious asked. "Ah! Maybe an ambassadorship!" The fact that McCormick is a "Jame duck," it is held, would be no bar to his eligibility for a diplomatic post.

Frank Kellogg was picked as ambassador to Great Britain after having been defeated for re-election to the senate by the youthful Farm-Laborite, Henrik Shipstead.

As a member of the Senate Committee on Foreign Affairs McCormick has had a finger in shaping our diplomatic policy. And he is a dependable Republican "regular" on all questions touching our foreign relationships.

Also, which is a controlling factor in the selection of ambassadors, he has enough millions to enable him to accept such a post.

HELPFUL HINTS

WASHING OIL CLOTH
For washing oil cloth use a flannel well wrung out of water and wipe the cloth until it is as dry as possible.

BAKING POTATOES
When you bake potatoes have the skins dry. Wet potatoes lower the heat and a strong heat at the start is what makes the potato light.

EASY TO RAISE
Parsley may be raised in a sunny window all winter long and you have a garnish whenever you need it.

KEEP IN GLASS
Acids or liquids should never be kept in tin containers. Glass is the ideal material for such supplies.

SCALES FOR KITCHEN
A set of house scales is indispensable for the kitchen. If you find that you are receiving short weight packages from your grocer you should remedy the matter.

NOT TOO HOT
Be careful not to dry your wooden chopping bowl in to great heat as it will split if you do. Scald it always to keep from warping.

ADDS LOTS OF FLAVOR
A bit of Worcestershire sauce added to the French dressing gives it a very distinct flavor.

WASH LEMONS WELL
Before grating lemon peel be sure to wash the lemon carefully with a vegetable brush and remove any specks.

Tries Kellogg's Bran—restores health after 12 years of intense suffering

Mr. Firth writes that he suffered for 12 years from constipation and his friend for 10 years—a total of 22 years' suffering permanently relieved by Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled.

Gentlemen:
For 12 years I had been troubled with indigestion caused mostly by constipation. Until about a year ago, I would suffer from 4 to 20 weeks at a time.

I happened to see your Krumbled Bran in a store, purchased a package and got almost immediate relief. I am still eating the Krumbled Bran every day.

The most wonderful results obtained with your Krumbled Bran I will now relate. A gentleman who has been taking medicine for about 16 years for constipation could not find anything to give him relief. Three weeks ago I advised him to try Krumbled Bran, as I had told him what wonderful results I had gotten from it. The gentleman in question purchased a box, and he told me that for the first time in ten years he is regular without taking medicine.

Yours for success,
William Firth, Jr., 56 Volan St.,

Eaten regularly, Kellogg's Bran is guaranteed to relieve the most chronic case of constipation, or your grocer returns your money. Eat two table-spoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. The flavor is delicious. Try it in the recipes on every package. Made in Battle Creek, Sold by all grocers.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Salient facts concerning the world's series:

Contending teams—New York Giants, National League champions, and Washington Senators, American League champions.
Games—Best four out of seven to decide championship; first and second games scheduled Saturday and Sunday in Washington; third, fourth and fifth in New York, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday; sixth, in Washington, Thursday; place for seventh if necessary, to be decided by toss of coin.
Time of game daily at 2 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time).
Capacity of park—$7,000 in Washington, $4,000 in New York.

Probable opening day batteries—Johnson and Ruel for Washington, McQuillan and Gowdy for New York.

Umpires—Elliott Quigley and William J. Klein representing National League; Tommy Connolly and William Dineen, representing the American League.

(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Judge Landis was confronted by the nemesis of lawyers in his cross questioning of Cozy Dolan, in the baseball scandal investigation. From each query of the commissioner, Dolan took refuge behind the conventional first aid to witnesses.

"I can't remember."
A reporter said to Cozy: "Isn't that a weak position? If you were guilty or innocent why didn't you answer yes or no instead of 'I can't remember'?"
"It's a habit of speech, I guess," Cozy replied.

GOOD NEWS TO WALTER

(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Production of cloudy weather for tomorrow's world series opening was hailed by Washington fans today as an omen for triumph by Walter Johnson, Senators' "pitching ace" and his speed ball.

Stopping in front of a newspaper office, Johnson was encountered by a youth bearing the latest meteorological reports.
"Here's good news for you, Walter," the youth intoned and Johnson grinned as he was handed this bit of encouragement.

Double Plays
Won the Pennant
For Washington

BY BILLY EVANS
Washington has literally double-played itself into a pennant.
The great Walter Johnson, with a fine brand of pitching, has done his part.

That remarkable mite of a catcher, Muddy Ruel, has been a big factor in the Senators' success.

The wizardry of Manager Stanley Harris, whose clever decision got the most out of the team, was a great help.

In fact, every player on the club to the lowly substitute gave his best.

However, old Mr. Double Play proved to be the deciding factor in 1924's hectic struggle for the American League championship.

Harris to Peckinpaugh to Judge Peckinpaugh to Harris to Judge Bluege to Harris to Judge Bluege to Peckinpaugh.

Many Double-Play Combinations
There you have just a few of the double-play combinations that made 4 championship club of a team that looked just ordinary at the start of the season.

"Peckinpaugh and Harris form the greatest keystone combination that has ever played in the major leagues. Their work around second base is simply uncanny."

So spoke Johnny Diers of the Chicago White Sox after Washington had taken three straight games in the final series in that city. Some compliment coming from Evers of the Tinkers to Everses of the Cubs.

In winning that series of three games Washington made a dozen double plays five of them in one game, equaling the major league record.

Harris Wonder at Pivoting
In every game one or more remarkable double plays shut off Chicago runs that would have changed the result of the game.

Most of the pivoting on double plays is done by the second baseman. Manager Harris of Washington is a wonder at it.

Harris can pivot quickly after taking a fast throw and get more on the ball than any second sacker I have ever seen in action, with the possible exception of Eddie Collins.

Yes, sir. In passing out the glory for Washington's great showing don't overlook Mr. Double Play.

Chicago Series
Stands One-All

(By The Associated Press.)
CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—The battle for the baseball supremacy of Chicago between the Chicago American and National League, ended at one all today as the teams took the field for the third game of the annual city series. Vic Aldridge, for the Cubs, and Ted Stenichsen for the White Sox, were likely pitching selections. The White Sox evened up by defeating the Cubs 12 to 7 in the second game yesterday.

All His Stock

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Thomas Fortune Ryan will sell of his racing and breeding stock at an early date. It is said that Ryan's farm in the Virginia Piedmont, near Charlottesville and Lynchburg, also will be sold. It is understood.

Among the racing stock to be sold are Idiosyncrasy, Laurano, winner of the Metropolitan handicap last spring; Jubal, Mingo, Early and John S. Mosby. Ryan's farm embraces several thousand acres.

DOBIE IS PESSIMISTIC

Coach Dobie of Cornell, the original "Gloomy Gus" of football is not at all optimistic over 1924. He insists on the graduation of Sundstrom, Cassidy, Ramsey and the brilliant Pflum he lost the mainstay of his eleven.

DANVILLE HIGH ELEVEN
OPENS SEASON TOMORROW
HERE AGAINST REIDSVILLE

Danville High School will open its 1924 football season tomorrow afternoon at Stonewall Jackson park with the Reidsville, N. C. High. The game is scheduled for 3:30 o'clock.

Coach J. H. Keck will send a team slightly above the average in weight for Danville high teams into the fray. He will have the services of all those who are tentative candidates for regular berths unless something untoward happens between now and tomorrow.

Judging from games played this season by the two elevens, the contest should be closely played. Reidsville beat Martinsville last Saturday by the score of 13 to 6. Chatham has been won by both Martinsville and Danville 32 to 0 and 24 to 0, respectively.

Captain Garland Clark will have a number of veterans to lead the attack against the visitors. At least 13 of those coming out daily have had more or less football experience. In addition, he and Coach Keck have had 19 of the 12 boys to teach the rudiments of the game this season. From among the 35 candidates for regular places, they believe a team can be whipped into condition that the school need not be ashamed of.

Several of the new comers are showing to good advantage and will be heard from before the schedule is half way played.

Seven games are scheduled with an open date on Nov. 15. It is also possible that a game will be played the last week of November. South Boston will be played at South Boston on Nov. 22.

Tougher scrimmages will be included in the next few days. Coach Keck has not been forcing his men and one net result of this policy is the absence of an injured list.

Baltimore Again
Defeats Saints

(By The Associated Press.)
BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 3.—The Baltimore Orioles will go into the second contest of the "little world series" today with the edge on the Saints, their American Association opponents, as a result of yesterday's ninth inning 4-3 victory.

It is probable that no clubs in the history of the minor series have ever been better matched, the first game of the series being a bitterly fought affair with honors almost exactly even until Jake Jacobson came to bat in the ninth and clouted the homer that turned apparent defeat into a 4 to 3 Baltimore victory.

Jack Ogden is expected to be on the mound for the Orioles in today's game. The Saints will probably use Bill Merritt, a left-hander.

Four Events On Race Card Today

(By The Associated Press.)
COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 3.—Four events featured by the first list of completed today's get-way card at the Columbus fall Grand Circuit meeting. Only four horses including Czar Worthy and Cupit's Allbreen, were entered in this event which was for a purse of $1,500. The three other races were class 2, with the 2:08 pace with 8 starters, the 2:01 trot with 10 starters and the 2:13 trot with five eligibles.

DAVIS AND SMITH PLEDGE
MUTUAL SUPPORT AND RAP
G. O. P. ADMINISTRATION

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—John W. Davis, democratic presidential nominee, and Governor Alfred E. Smith, gubernatorial candidate, speaking last night when the same platform in Madison Square Garden where more than two months ago they were rivals for their party's nomination, pledged mutual support.

While 13,000 persons cheered their arraignment of the republican party, Mayor John F. Hylan, who spoke just before the two major candidates, gave his approval to their candidacies and pledged his support to the democratic ticket.

A whimsical humorous note pervaded Mr. Davis' speech, which brought cheers and applause from the audience, while Governor Smith cited his own record as proof of fitness for re-election.

"Albion" was the keynote of the address of Mr. Davis and Governor Smith stressed the importance of universal exercise of the voting privilege as a panacea for governmental problems.

First of the "albion" mentioned by Mr. Davis was that of Albert E. Fall, former secretary of the Interior, which the presidential candidate said was the secretary's story of a $100,000 gift Theodore Roosevelt, the assistant secretary of the Navy.

Davis, who said that Colonel Roosevelt was that he was only a messenger boy.

Then Mr. Davis continued his list of albion.

When someone in the crowd that packed the garden asked, "what about Ned McLean's wire to the White House?" Mr. Davis replied, "Well, that is another in the list of albion."

Gov. Smith told of the achievements in the state during his two years as Albany and compared the record his party made in the state to that made by the republican party in four years.

Gov. Smith said that the republican party, in 1920, after making promises to return the country to normalcy, the republican party has done nothing to improve conditions, he asserted.

The Teapot Dome affair and the investigation of the veterans' bureau were mentioned by Governor Smith in a plea to the voters to repudiate the republican administration.

He pictured President Coolidge as impotent in the hands of an insurgent Congress which seized the every opportunity to do the opposite of the president's bidding. Instead of the strong, silent leader, the republican president bureau is striving to present to the prospective voter, the president is weak, vacillating and incapable of leading his own party, Governor Smith declared.

The audience gave Mr. Davis an enthusiastic greeting but resented his most vigorous applause for "Al" Smith.

The crowd was slow in arriving, and although the doors were opened at six o'clock the hall was not filled when the first speaker was introduced.

STANLEY HARRIS
AND J. MCGRAW
OPPOSITE TYPES

Giant Manager Is Hard Boiled and "Bucky" Is Quiet and Soothing

By ROBERT T. SMALL
(Copyright, 1924, by The Bee)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Great oaks from little acorns grow. John D. Rockefeller once was a lowly clerk. Charlie Schwab drove the inter-village stag. And Stanley Raymond Harris was just a breaker-boy in the Pennsylvania mines. Fate has been kind since those lowly days. John D. Rockefeller is the steel wizard of the world. And "Stan," at 27, is about to go to bat in a world series as the only pilot who ever brought the Washington baseball team home a winner.

In "Bucky" Harris, as he stands today, dizzy at the peak, there is no envy of the Rockefeller millions, no hankering after the corporate power, no grizzled warrior who snaps and snarls "he shall not pass!"

But Stanley Harris is not afraid. Outside his window he sees the beanstalks rising to the skies. Saturday afternoon he begins his climb and in four or five trips to the mystic castle he hopes to bring home the Giant's gold, the Giant's little brown he that lays the golden eggs, and last of all the magic harp which slays the most wonderful songs in all the world. For Stanley Harris is dreaming dreams.

He sees himself as Jack the Giant Killer. He has drunk of the cup of success. Destiny rides beside him and he has faith to conquer the world and what promises to be about as hectic a series so that world has ever known.

It would be difficult to imagine two more opposite types than Manager Harris and the Senators and John Joseph McGraw of the Giants. McGraw, hard-boiled and hard-spoken. Harris, quiet, sympathetic and soothing. Both men have accomplished this year's feat by separate means. One has been the hard-riding, whip cracking cowboy, the other the gentle shepherd of his flock. It remains to be seen what will happen when the cow-puncher and the shepherd meet in a short but scintillating battle of the best four in seven.

Around John McGraw clusters the tradition of the master mind, the supreme strategist of all baseball history. The field marshal of a score of hard-fought campaigns. Pitted against him is the novice, the new recruit in the baseball classic, the "Buck" private young enough to be his son, but already worthy of any man's steel.

Does Stanley Harris dread the meeting with the old master? Does he quake in fear of being shown up by the Little Napoleon of the national game? He does not. For Harris is clothed in the bright and audacious armor of youth—the youth that fears no adversary. Perhaps if youth would stop and think, it might be awed and afraid. But standing and thinking are not the hand maidens of youth. So no matter how the psychologists of the game may paint and picture McGraw, no matter how many frightened masks they may place upon his otherwise harmless visage, Stanley Harris will merely think his Halloween and chase the jack-o'-lanterns to their lair.

The baseball world is asking two questions today: How much credit for the record-breaking performance of the Senators is due to young Harris? And: How did Clark Griffith ever happen to name him?

There is but one man to answer these pertinent, these almost impertinent inquiries. That man is Clark Griffith and the old fox likes nothing better than to meet the man with these questions on his lips. Griffith will tell you that he and Harris are tools to work with, much the same tools that other captains of the crew had had and Harris did the rest. Griffith assisted at the training grounds and when the goal was almost in sight and the goal was almost in sight and Griffith assisted with the pocketbook.

Always ready to give such advice as his superior years might warrant but never attempting to interfere, Griffith has let his young pilot take the men completely in charge and there today that they regard Stanley Harris as a better field leader than Clark Griffith ever was. Harris is gifted with natural baseball talent. He has the "feel" of the game. He is great on what the experts refer to as "calling the play." He knows instinctively what the other fellow is going to do and if he doesn't outguess him, he survives in the coming imbroglio the sages of the game will admit themselves woefully wrong.

A player-manager admittedly has a tough assignment in a world series. His playing may easily interfere with his management, or his management may interfere with his playing. Harris has a great sense of co-ordination and he may get by where others do not rest too heavily upon him—and they probably won't—his playing is like yto dazzle some of those who have not followed it closely. To the experts Harris is known as a quicker pitcher, at second base than Johnny Evers ever was. The run-killing combination of Tinker to Evers to Chance was never as smart as the Senatorial Bludgeon of Peck to Harris to Judge. In this conjunction it may surprise some of the latter day fans to know that Tinker and Evers played alongside each other for four years and never spoke. They had quarreled about some plays. There is no such spirit in the Washington Senators.

Harris' managerial duties have been lighter than would ordinarily be the case for he has trusted each man to do his best and in return he has been idolized by the members of the team. He has an unquenchable spirit. He bubbles over with enthusiasm. His spirit is infectious. If a Giant makes a mistake, he lets McGraw worry over it. If a Senator slips he wants to apologize to "Stan."

"Good-bye old crutch!"
THERE IS positively no longer any excuse for suffering the agonies of rheumatism! Especially in the autumn of your life, when the vital organs weaken, impurities multiply and linger in the muscles and joints, as never before. It is now, just now, when you cannot afford to guess. No day returns!

Here is a joyous fact which can mean to you a fond farewell forever to all the miseries, the tortures, the body-twisting pains that you have suffered from the demon of rheumatism. It is a fact that rheumatism means "blood poverty." It is a fact with the increase of red-cells in your blood, impurities are destroyed. It is a fact that S.S.S. will help Nature build these red-blood-cells! S.S.S. is one of the most powerful blood cleansers in existence. Its results in thousands of rheumatic cases have been nothing short of amazing! The medicinal ingredients of S.S.S. are purely vegetable. This is very important to remember! What can be more inspiring, more wonderful than to see the shackles of pain released from your straggling body, swellings, lingering pains, stiffness of joints and muscles all disappear; your stomach made strong; your face pink with the old sweet-heart glow, your blood enriched and your cheeks more plump as they used to be. You can do it! Take S.S.S., the great destroyer of rheumatic impurities.

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in the U. S. and Canada. The larger size is more economical.

CHINA PROTESTS AGAINST SIGNING OF AGREEMENT BY SOVIET WITH GEN. CHANG

(By The Associated Press.)
PEKING, Oct. 3.—The Chinese foreign office has forwarded a protest to the Russian government at Moscow against the reported signing of an agreement by Soviet representatives with General Chang Tso-Lin, Manchurian leader. The protest is a renewal of one already lodged with L. M. Karakan, the Soviet ambassador.

In the agreement with General Chang, considered an outlaw by the Peking government, the Soviet accorded the Manchurian recognition of the understanding that he would not interfere with the operation of Russian-owned Chinese eastern railway, a link in the transcontinental railway system in Manchuria.

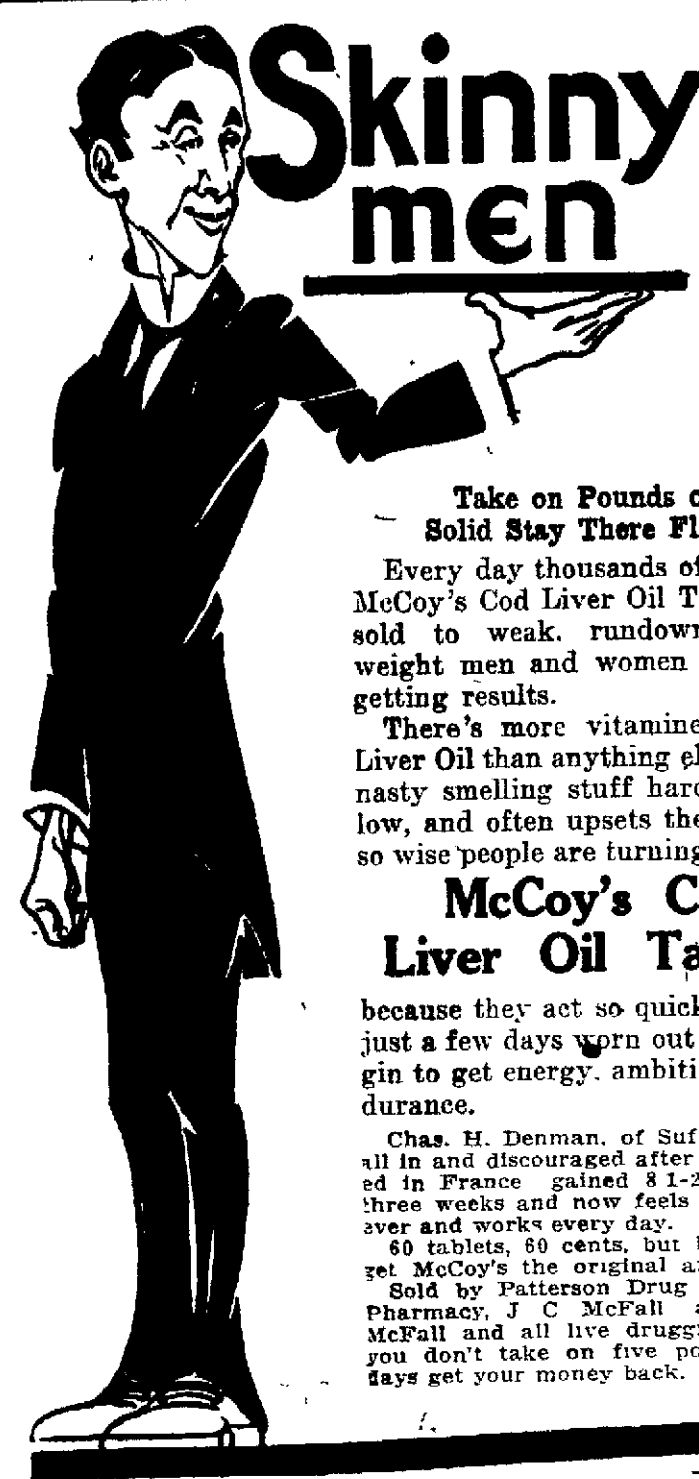

In the protest sent to Moscow yesterday, the foreign office pointed out that inasmuch as China and Russia are friendly countries and General Chang is at war with the central government, the Chinese eastern railway and other matters are legitimately the concern of the Peking government.

The protest was dispatched to Moscow after a confirmation of the signing of the agreement by the Soviet with Chang was received here. The foreign office in its protest emphasized the irregularity of the whole proceeding on the part of Russia.

The foreign office also protested to the French government against the alleged delivery of battle aircraft from the steamer Chantilly to General Chang.

Army headquarters here continued to report victories today on the northern front near the Chihli-Manchurian border, where the Peking and Mukden armies are engaged.

CHARGED RICHMOND POLICE DEPARTMENT WITH CORRUPTION

(By The Associated Press.) RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 3.—A special grand jury to investigate charges of corruption in the Richmond police department will be called soon, Commonwealth's Attorney Dave Satterfield indicated today after conferences with Mayor J. C. Hunter, Director of Public Safety James B. Shepard, junior, and Assistant United States Attorney Carlton Jones.

"A federal grand jury should weigh the circumstances whether we believe or disbelieve the evidence gathered," Mr. Satterfield declared.

These charges against the police followed the arrest this week of several negroes on charges of violating the federal anti-narcotic laws. The negroes are also charged with attempting to bribe the federal agents and while being questioned on this score are alleged to have stated that they had paid bribes for protection in the past and that they had met "the policeman who did not have his price."

Everyman's Investments

By GEORGE T. HUGHES
(Copyright, 1924, by The Bee)
Sixty-fifth Article.
Construction Loans.

In a preceding article I pointed out that more care was needed in investing in the securities of a new enterprise than in one which had demonstrated its earning power. That article considered only stocks from this standpoint. To a less degree, however, the same applies to bonds.

For instance only the other day an investor wrote me that he was the owner of the bonds of a railroad company which had just defaulted their interest. He said that he had bought the bonds in good faith as an investment and not as a speculation and that they were recommended by a reliable banking house. Probably at the time he made his investment he did not notice that these bonds were issued by a so-called "construction loan." There is no record of earnings, only estimates of what the property would earn after the road had been built and estimates were never realized. The project failed and the bonds defaulted.

There are many of these construction loans offered to investors and some of them are entirely sound but others are not. They do not grade as high as bonds which are a lien on property already income paying. When you are asked to buy a security based on future prospects rather than upon actual results it is necessary to examine the situation with considerable care. You have no income statement over a period of years to judge the first by the investment banking house that underwrites it and second by the record of the management of the corporation in similar enterprises. In any case you must take a little more risk than if you were buying a bond the record of which is available for examination. In return for this risk you are offered a slightly greater return. You will find too that the open market appraises bonds in this way. I have tried to make distinction in my article which will appear in The Bee next Saturday.)

New Lamp Burns 94% Air

Beats Electric or Gas

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94 per cent. air and 6 per cent. common kerosene (coal oil). The inventor, O. S. Johnson, 542 N. Broad St., Philadelphia, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month—adv.

Assails Party But Will Stick To It, He Says

nounce me and my platform approved by the voters.

The Coolidge committees have announced in the press that they would not use me in the campaign.

"The state Republican platform declares for a farm relief bill upon the principle of the McNary-Haugen bill. I approve and stand upon this platform and I ask that the president do the same, but he will not do it. His opposition widely advertised in eastern newspapers defeated the McNary-Haugen bill in Congress.

"In a recent speech the president quoted and approved a valuation of thirty-five billions as the value of the railroads and certain other utilities. I cannot tell the exact value of these utilities from his statement, but they would probably not exceed five billion dollars. This would leave thirty billion as the value of the railroads as approved by the president's speech. The Wall Street financier has always maintained the same claim and with the prestige of this statement they will probably be able to get the final value increased under the Esch-Connally law after the election, despite the fact that the statement was used to denounce government ownership and despite the further fact that all the railroads on the security market were only worth twelve billion dollars. The reduction of railroad rates and if this idea of valuation is adopted it means another large increase in rates.

"I wired the president asking for an extra session of Congress immediately and Secretary Siemp wrote me that he would call the matter to the attention of the president and hoped I would call upon the city. The Cedar Rapids gang immediately brought out an independent candidate for senator against me.

"The cause of this situation grows out of the following matters in Congress:

"I was against Newberryism. The president was for it.

"I was against the ship subsidy. The president supported it.

"I was in favor of repealing the Esch-Connally railroad law and the president opposed its repeal.

"I was in favor of repealing corruption in the departments; the president opposed the investigation and criticized the Senate for its action.

The president favored the Mellon tax bill, which reduced taxes on the big incomes by a big percentage and on the little incomes by a little percentage. I helped amend the bill to reverse these reductions in favor of the common people.

"I favored the old soldiers bonus bill. The president vetoed it and I voted to pass it over the veto.

"I favored the postal employees bill. It was vetoed and I will vote to pass it over the veto.

"On all taxation I favor high taxes on excess profits and large incomes and estates. The president favors the Mellon plan which taxes the poor.

"I oppose giving Muscle Shoals to Henry Ford or any other private interest. The president favored selling it without much regard to price.

"I favored Senator La Follette's resolution to adjourn Congress until July 7th, after the conventions and the return and enact the farm bill. The president opposed it and wants an unauthorized commission instead.

"I belong to the farm bloc.

"The president belongs to the Wall Street bloc.

"Upon this record I stand for my re-election and I promise the farmers, the laborers and the common people that they shall not be fooled, crossed and sacrificed with my knowledge or consent. I will do in the future, as I have done in the past."

Ford Driver Hurt In Collision With State Road Truck

One of the big state highway trucks driven by W. T. Price, and a Ford truck of the Danville Vulcanizing Company, and driven by J. A. Meadows, were in collision this morning at 10:15 o'clock at the corner of Bridge and Loyal streets.

Meadows received a number of cuts about the face, the most serious of which required stitches. Price was not injured.

It appears that the larger truck of the state highway company was coming down Bridge street and the Ford came down Loyal street. The machines collided at the corner, it being stated that Mr. Price was mostly in fault. Meadows was thrown against the windshield and sustained a number of cuts. He was rushed to a physician's office where the wounds were treated and found not to be serious.

The accident was investigated by Police Officer O. S. Mayberry and later by Officers Cok and Lewis. Price was arrested and placed under a bond of $250 for his appearance in the police court on next Tuesday.

Many Hurt In Street Car Crash

(By The Associated Press.) RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 3.—More than a score of passengers were slightly hurt here today in a collision between two street cars. Five of them, negroes, were taken to hospitals but physicians said their injuries were of a minor nature. A dense haze arising from Shock Creek is thought to have been responsible for the accident.
